National Registry Of Unclaimed Retirement Benefits® – the most unique website in the industry

The National Registry, a nation-wide public service company, providing a secure data base service designed to support fiduciaries and custodians holding retirement benefits that have been left in the plan, unclaimed by missing former participants, or have been set up as a Default IRA.

It is a free service to the Fiduciary or the Institution to register the former participant and for the participant that is trying to locate their unclaimed funds. It is a secure website designed to help both employers and former employees. Employers can register names for free of former employees who have left money in the plan or who have had a Default IRA established on their behalf. Former employees can perform a free, secure search to determine if they are entitled to any unpaid retirement account money. This website contributes greatly to fiduciaries meeting their obligation to see that these unclaimed benefits are re-connected with the former participant.
